Future restaurant site?

This venerable structure on Pleasanton's Main Street, which last housed the Amador - Pleasanton school district central office staff, may join the community's burgeoning restaurant population. Negotiations are reportedly proceeding with the apparent intent, on the part of three South County men involved, of turning the home into a restaurant and bar operation with offices upstairs. The name "Casa del Sol" is the tentative name for the pending operation. The home is owned by the Daughtreys, who operate a clothing store in Castro Valley.

For Heritage core

Planning accord evolves

PLEASANTON — The recent controversy over moving the Presbyterian Community Church uncovered a new group of people interested in preserving the stately - looking residential blocks downtown, but the city has anticipated their interest.

Back in the late 1960's city government was concerned about revitalization of Main Street and community leaders wanted it done in a way that would preserve old buildings. The planning department and others came up with the name "Pleasanton Heritage" to designate the mixture of early California and Victorian styles that would be encouraged.

Even the newer buildings would be built in those styles, said downtown leaders. The late Bernard Gerton helped out that theme by building a Victorian appearing structure, the Larsen - Gerton Building. Architect Jack Bras was busy redesigning fronts for the old Thompson Pharmacy and other stores near St. Mary Street and the city did its part by installing street lights which looked like Victorian gas lamps. PG&E cooperated by designing those street lamps especially for Pleasanton.

The city's biggest contribution was a special ordinance which declared that the city would try to cooperate to the utmost with the property owner in restoring a building, even if it meant not meeting all strict letters of the law in building codes.

That didn't mean a total collapse of the building code, Ray Young, told the The Times yesterday. Young restored the old Bank of America Building on the corner of Main and Neal Streets and then moved on to other buildings, including what many consider his best, the Shoe Stable on the southwest corner of Main and Neal Streets.

"You are supposed to bring the buildings up to code, so you try to find a way to meet the code without going exactly the straight way the book says," said Young. He said he has been satisfied with the way the ordinance has worked for him.

A good example of the city's efforts to get commercial uses in old buildings is the Victorian house on Main Street next to the police station. Prospective buyers would like to put a restaurant in it, and the city likes the idea, but use of fire in a kitchen could present fire code problems. If the restaurant would stick to lunchtime sandwiches, it could be possible. Offices upstairs could help make the building financially feasible as an investment.

The city has an even stronger ordinance on the books for historic preservation, but it hasn't been used yet. It would enable the city to put a moratorium on any old buildings slated for destruction.

The building would have to be designated an important historical site before the city could impose the moratorium. Then the city would have a certain time span in which to raise the funds to buy the property. If the city failed, the property owner would be allowed to proceed with the building's destruction.

"We haven't implemented that ordinance," said Planning Director Robert Harris. "The committee which would designate the buildings as historical landmarks has not been appointed."

School office brass count same, but more teachers

The number of central district office administrators in the Amador and Pleasanton school districts has not increased in the past seven years when placed beside the growth in enrollment and number of teachers.

Superintendent Bruce Newlin underscored the statistic as part of a report Wednesday to the Pleasanton school board on district office administrative and classified staffing.

Since 1966, in the Amador - Pleasanton districts, the number of teachers per 100 students has risen 3.8 per cent (2.1 per cent in Pleasanton). On the other hand, the number of district office administrative staff per 100 students has declined 34.5 per cent (23.1 per cent in the Pleasanton Joint School District).

The number of district office classified (secretarial, non-certificated) has risen 9.9 per cent (4.6 per cent in Pleasanton).

Newlin reported that the number of students in the two districts had increased from 6,680 in 1969 to 8,891 by the spring of 1975. This amounts to an increase of 3,211.

During the same time, the teaching staff had increased from 277 to 394.

District office administrators remained at six over the same period while the classified staff increased from 13 to 19 persons.

Prior to reviewing Newlin's report on staffing, trustees decided to seek more input on possible renaming of the venerable Pleasanton Elementary School on First Street.

Following a presentation by Pleasanton student body president Richard Krikorian and a lengthy discussion by board members, trustee Betty Nostrand made a motion to change the name from Pleasanton Elementary School to simply "Pleasanton School."

Previous stories concerning the school have also referred to it as "Pleasanton Middle School."

Basis for the proposed name change is the fact that the school will soon relinquish all grades save the "middle" grades of sixth, seventh, and eighth.

Mrs. Nostrand's motion almost died for lack of a second before board president Al Dutchover offered a "second."

The ensuing vote to drop the "elementary" designation failed when trustees Joe Schwab and Karen Finn voted "no" to balance "yes" votes by Nostrand and Dutchover and an abstention by Dr. Guy Clark.

The board then decided to reconsider a name change at a special board meeting Wednesday, May 19, 7:30 p.m., at the District Educational Center. Persons in the community wishing to speak on the issue should be present at that time.

Trustees also approved a title change, from purchasing agent to director of purchasing, for Tony Silva, approved Phase I construction at Harvest Park School (but tabled approval of Phase II pending review of a $300 expense), voted endorsement of Measure A on the June 8 ballot (the Amador district's tax increase measure) and passed on a request for assistance at a work day May 15. The latter will start at 8 a.m. and is for the express purpose of helping the city plant 250 trees and shrubs in the area between Harvest Park and Walnut Grove schools.

At the special meeting on the 19th, trustees will also hold a budget summary session.

Trustees Clark and Finn have also asked for reports (from the staff) on sixth and eighth grade testing, and use and overuse of school fields.

Insurance flap solved, Air Show ready to fly

LIVERMORE — The Jaycees' Seventh Annual Air Show will fly Sunday!

That's the official word from a relieved Skip Clausen, chairman of the event, who learned yesterday his organization will be able to obtain insurance to cover the performers and thereby undo the snag that threatened to hold up the show.

According to Clausen, the new insurance package will cost the Jaycees some $3,600 for $10 million worth of coverage. The package will protect both the Jaycees and the City of Livermore from any legal action that may be taken as a result of damages or injuries to the performers, spectators or property.

The insurance that covers the performers — up until yesterday thought to be either non-existent or else exorbitant — was obtained by the Jaycees through their broker, Roanoke International Agency Insurance Company, out of Los Angeles. The policy is backed up by Lloyd's of London, according to Clausen.

"So everybody's prayers paid off," he added.

The air show, an annual fundraising event for the Jaycees, was in jeopardy of being cancelled when the organization could not obtain insurance to cover the performers and the city council would not allow the event to occur without such coverage.

There were, however, no hard feelings on Clausen's part for the city's action.

"I felt the city attorneys have done an outstanding job in protecting the city's interests," he said. "And the city council has done their very best in protecting the taxpayers' interests.

"I have to agree with their decision. Put in their place I would have probably come to the same conclusion," he noted.

Record in Livermore

The whole area has gone dry

The driest year in recorded Valley history.

That dubious distinction seems very much within our reach as the 1975 - 76 rainfall season draws to a close.

With just seven weeks to go — weeks in which local stations have reported negligible rainfall in years past — this season threatens to set records not even known in "the great depression" of the '30's.

A check with the County Fire Station in Livermore reveals a "season to date" total rainfall of 4.78 inches.

Pleasanton's corporation yard reports 7.04 inches to date, by far the lowest total since that station began keeping records five years ago.

Alameda County Water Resources Bureau draws its annual rainfall reports from a score of Valley stations. The seasonal totals reaching back from 1974-75 were 19.4 inches, 23.63, 27.32 and 11.44 inches in 1971-72.

In 1975 - 76 to date, using just the Fairgrounds as its current reporting station, the county shows a total to date of 7.04 inches.

You have to go back to 1917 - 18 in Pleasanton's recorded history to find 12 months that produced less than ten inches of rain. The worst Amador Valley recorded in "the great depression" was 11.23 inches, in 1933 - 34.

Livermore has records dating back to 1871 (although not always scientifically accurate, those old records did show a definite trend). While there have been many years when 11 and 12 inches were reported in a total season, only in three seasons in the 1930's was there just slightly less than 10 inches .

Livermore may have "unofficially" set an all - time record with the 6.03 inches recorded in 1923 - 24, a low point matched in 1870 - 71.

Fortunately for the basin's underground water resources, this drought follows on the heels of three of the wettest seasons in Valley history, averaging better than 23 inches per year.

"We are not in trouble this year," said a spokesman for the Alameda County Water Resources Bureau, "but we sure will be if this same rain pattern extends through next winter."

In that event, he explained, "we would have to start drawing heavily on the Del Valle Reservoir" to provide back - up water to local water systems, and to high - priority agricultural users.

The lowest priority in Del Valle Lake is recreation, and that useage would be hard hit if the lake's water level had to be lowered starting in the spring of 1977.

None of which is any consolation to the Valley's dry - land ranchers, who have already suffered heavy cattle losses this year, and who would face "a real disaster" if there is no return next winter to something approaching this basin's 20 - inch seasonal average rainfall.

'Non-politician'

Valerie Raymond demanding changes

Valerie Raymond is running for Alameda County Supervisor, First District, because she believes it's time for a change. "At issue here is what kind of representation the district has been getting, and what kind of representation we think we should have," Raymond said.

John Murphy is her target. And she believes that by alerting constitupnts to the reasons why a change is needed, they'll desert the 16-year incumbent and move over to her side.

Raymond bills herself as a "citizen - candidate with a fresh outlook." She is mounting a grass - roots campaign as a self - described non-politician , and she declares herself unencumbered by the pressures of vested interests and big money support.

For the past three months, Raymond has been walking precincts. Both in the valley and over the hill in Fremont, Raymond has visited 8,000 homes. She thinks walking can make a difference, and she's been encouraged by what she's learned.

"One woman told me 'I'm sorry, but I just don't have faith in politicians.' And I said, 'Neither do I. That's why I'm running.'," Raymond said.

Raymond envisions the board of supervisors like "a giant spider in the middle of a web of interconnections between money, people and agencies." The county, she perceives, is the operating arm of the state government, a provider of services and a funnel for federal funds.

When there's a problem, Raymond said, all too often the supervisors will say their hands are tied, because of state and federal problems. "Their hands aren't as tied as they say they are. They're always ready to complain and they don't accept their repsonsibility," she said.

"Talk to people in social services. Their morale is poor. There are too many layers of middle management," she said.

"Budget processes in mental health are a mess. Categories change, administrative costs are staggering," Raymond said.

She termed Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center an insecure and inadequate jail. "The board of supervisors ignored Grand Jury reports about Santa Rita year after year," she said. Now the county is under orders to provide more beds for pretrial detention and Raymond argues there is at least one other way to approach thu problem.

"What we need is court reform, speed up the system and reduce the need for pretrial beds," she said. "The board has financial control over the courts, and they should put some pressure on the judges to process the cases more efficiently. Add a night court, for example," she said.

The county's problems with the state might be better solved if the supervisors kept in touch with legislators from their district, Raymond said. "The board of supervisors is intimately involved in what's actually happening. They should be able to make their problems known to their legislator."

She thinks development in the valley should be municipal. "I don't believe the county is adequately set up to plan urban development," she said. "It's not fair to put the people in a situation such as you have in Dublin, taking away their direct representation.

"I know it's a problem if people have expectations for their land in the further out areas, but there is already enough land for development within the municipalities to handle anticipated growth," she said.

"The county should cooperate with the cities to achieve regional plans and goals," Raymond said. "The cities shouldn't have to have the county on their flank sabotaging what they do."

Clear goals for land use need to be set at the county level, Raymond said. "We need more consistent zoning. The county must carefully consider the direction it wants to take on land, and then set standards to judge their land use decisions," she said.

"The county should do all it can to preserve the viability of agricultural land," Raymond declared, "but they have to learn they can't solve everyone's tax problems with development."

Raymond supports the Livermore - Amador Wastewater Management Agency's effluent disposal pipeline. Its size, she argued, should be determined by the cities.

"LAVWMA can handle the decision and they ought to be able to make the decision with the county's cooperation instead of a fight," she said.

Since she believes all growth should be urban, Raymond said she opposed the county's efforts to reserve its own space in the pipeline.

Raymond does not favor the one valley city concept because such a new city would lack of cohesive center. She said she would support a Dublin decision either to merge with Pleasanton or incorporate on its own. "I don't think the county should make the decision for them, but I would support Dublin in what it chose to do," she said.

Realistically, Raymond doesn't expect to win the post without a run-off in November. She thinks Murphy will be her likely opposition. But that won't change her campaign strategy which already is firmly aimed at attacking the incumbent's performance on salary increases, campaign contributions, tax increases, development, El Charro Road and the east county government site.

If Raymond hits hard and long enough on those points, she believes the electorate will answer "yes" to her question: "Isn't it time for a change?"

Woman inmate at Santa Rita Jail found dead

PLEASANTON — Authorities are investigating the death of a 21-year-old San Leandro woman inmate at Santa Rita Jail found dead in the shower Wednesday morning.

Patricia Ann Jones of 4043 Lock Lane in San Leandro was pronounced dead on arrival at Valley Memorial Hospital. An autopsy was performed Wednesday, but no cause of death was listed.

A Sheriff's Department spokesman said Miss Jones was booked into Santa Rita early Wednesday on suspicion of resisting arrest, battery and being under the influence of drugs.

Captain Dennis Jeffery, commanding officer at Santa Rita, said other prisoners heard Miss Jones singing in the shower approximately 15 minutes before she was discovered lying face down in water deep enough in which to drown.

The investigation into her death is continuing.

Prowler arrested near Murrieta apartment complex

LIVERMORE — A young man wearing a floppy hat and wrapped in a sleeping bag was arrested by police after he wandered about for two hours, refusing residents' requests he leave.

Police said dwellers reported the youth tore shrubs from in front of an apartment and threw them towards the unit's window. While investigating the complaint, officers heard a noise and found that the complex's recreation room had been forcibly entered by someone who broke a gypsum panel covering a broken window.

Sheriff's deputy Gerald Phillips then appeared with a suspect in custody and turned him over to Livermore police officers.

The suspect was thought to have broken into the room to sleep there, since several cushions had been placed into a single pile on the floor.

Police booked the youth for loitering, since his home address was more than five miles away from the arrest scene.

Burglars hit Lamberan Avenue home

LIVERMORE — William Hahn and his wife returned home Wednesday night to discover their Lamberan Avenue home ransacked and burglarized of more than $250 in valuables.

Police said burglars apparently cut through a cardboard sheet used to cover a broken window, and then opened the rear door to gain entrance.

Missing items include 19 silver dollars, 22 halves, several dimes, an assortment of coins in separate holders purchased at a coin store, and a piggy bank containing 8,000 pennies. The total loss was listed as $255, all in cash.

Police recovered a blue jacket at the scene and believe it belongs to a suspect in the burglary. The investigation is continuing.

Vandals destroy windows at St. Bartholomew's

LIVERMORE — Rock - throwing vandals destroyed five windows at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church on Enos Way Wednesday.

Pastor Kenneth Richards told police it would cost $220 to replace the windows, located on the top of the church.

Police have no suspects in the attack.

Robbers risk raid, rip - off rug roll

LIVERMORE — Burglars stole a $350 rug from outside the Grutman's store on First Street Tuesday while workers attempted to install new carpeting inside the store, police reported yesterday.

Installer William Lucas told police that a 12 by 32 foot carpet lying rolled up on the sidewalk was stolen about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday while workmen were inside preparing to lay the rug into place.

The rug, owned by Valley Carpet Co. of Pleasanton, is described as a Hollytex brand, burnt orange short shag carpet. Lucas said the enormous size of the rug made it impossible for thieves without use of a large truck to take it.

Police have no suspects in the case.

Insight to burglary

Make 'em think you're at home

Part IV of a series

Most burglars will not challenge a home they believe is inhabitated. It's the job of the resident, therefore, to convince everyone outside the house that it is brimming full of normal activity.

Burglars are aware of the common lighting schemes, such as a living room light left on to simulate inhabitation, because this is a false set-up. Most families don't spend the entire evening illuminated by a single front - room light, but move from room to room as the night grows old.

If you're going out just for the evening, leave on an upstairs or bathroom light. Unless a ladder was left outside the house, the burglar won't be able to peek in through the bedroom window, and the bathroom's frosted glass obscures any activity wihthin.

If you're leaving for several days, buy an inexpensive timer that turns on or off one or a series of lights at preselected times. With several such timers, the lighting system can be set up so it appears from outside that the family has occupied the front room, moved to bathrooms, and finally ended up in their respective bedrooms.

In any case, turn on or activate by timer a radio turned to moderate volume, preferably to a talk show. This simulates occupancy that a burglar can hear when he attempts to enter a rear door or window, and will scare him off in most instances.

Timers cost from $4 upwards to $20, depending upon manufacturer, wattage capacity and other features. First check your situation, then examine the fullline of timers available at discount or hardware stores.

A photo - electric cell is another automatic device designed to activate electrical equipment at the outset of darkness, and turn those same units off when daybreak approaches. These are commonly used for controlling exterior lighting systems, since light indoors is usually subdued and not strong enough to activate the eye.

Sgt. Don Lee of the Livermore police department recommends that residents simulate their regular routine as much as possible. "Don't change the complexion of a home — if you always leave the porch light on, then leave it on when you leave."

If you normally leave your drapes open during the daytime and closed at night, ask a trusted neighbor to come in and switch the drapes twice a day.

Don't allow your home to look unoccupied. Have a neighbor remove newspapers or cicrculars from your porch. Stop milk deliveries while you're gone, and make sure that mail is picked up regularly.

If that same neighbor is extremely good - hearted, ask him to mow your lawn once or twice during a long absence. If not, pay his son or daughter to do so.

Don't leave notes posted explaining your absence — this is no more than an advertisement to burglars. And never place a key in a "hidden" spot outside your home — under doormats, in mailboxes or elsewhere — it's the first place burglars look.

"We're trying to give homes that 'lived-in' feeling," Lee said. "Don't advertise the fact that you're not home."

And don't worry, energy - conservationists, — the cost to run a 40-watt lightbulb 12 hours a day, every day for a month, amounts to 28 cents.

To be concluded Sunday.

Trustees say cancel bonds

Murray School District trustees have moved to cancel unused bonds from a 1960 issue and $750,000 authorized at an election held April 15, 1969.

The first of the two actions, approved earlier this week, is in resolution form and asks the Board of Supervisors to cancel the remaining unsold bonds ($29,000). The latter is the principal amount.

Bonds in the amount of $721.000 of the same issue were sold. The remaining $29,000, of a total $750,000, had not been offered for sale one year from the date of the election in July of 1960.

The $750,000 in bonds approved by the voters bore a maximum interest rate of 5 per cent. After the bonds were voted the interest rates bid by bidders exceeded the five per cent maximum. The board of that era then held an election on Dec. 16, 1969 with a maximum interest rate of seven per cent on $1.5 million in bonds.

The higher amount was necessitated because of a sharp increase in assessed valuation and the higher interest rate.

The board had promised voters in 1960 that if the $1.5 million in bonds were approved the $750,000 principal amount voted in April of 1969 would not be sold.

Voters did authorize the $1.5 million and, according to the Murray administration, all have been sold. The action Monday was to cancel the vote and subsequent authorization.

Thus, with the passing of the resolution, the vote and authorization are "of no further validity."

In separate actions, trustees approved an audiometric screening test contract at the rates of $220 per test day and 45 cents per child.

A Title IV-B funds application, in the amount of $6,333 for school library resources and guidance counseling and testing was approved.

Trustees learned the Bicentennial Parade involving at least 700 to 800 district students would take place May 27 starting at 1:30 p.m. Joan Ernst of the Frederiksen School MGM committee is organizing the first-ever event. A program at the school will follow the parade.

Trustees released their response to the Murray teachers' contract proposal submitted a month ago.

Among the salient points are:

1) The district will maintain the 1975-76 salary placement for continuing employees in the certificated unit.

2) An additional 4.5 percent will be used for salary or fringe benefits. "This may be used for step and column movement or in some other mutually agreed upon way," according to the board's statement.

3) During the term of the agreement, the district will continue its present contribution to health and welfare benefits at the rate of $1,172.88 a year for full-time and continuing certificated employees.

4) The district will try to maintain an average class size of 28.

5) Teachers shall be present at school not less than 30 minutes before the opening of their session and be in their class rooms not less than 15 minutes before opening to receive pupils

6) The calendar for 1976-77 shall provide for 185 days; 177 are teaching days, 4 are conference days and 4 non-teaching days.

Car wash hearing

LIVERMORE — A public hearing will be held at the city council meeting May 24 on a conditional use permit request to locate a coin - operated car wash at 1811 and 1825 Third St.

Although the planning commission has recommended to the council that the permit be issued, objections have been received from residents in the area as well as from the First Church of Christ Scientist.

Further protests and accusations of conflict of interests have been lodged at the conditional use permit request filed by Louis Trotter, a member of the city's planning staff.

Those objections have been made by the owners of the Livermore Kwik Car Wash on First Street at the railroad tracks crossing who also are in the midst of working out a reduced access problem with the state Public Utilities Commission as a result of the relocation of the Southern Pacific tracks.

The public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Court Chambers, 39 S. Livermore Ave.

Miller on Zone 7

Don Miller, candidate for Zone 7, said in a press release issued yesterday that a recent Herald/ News editorial entitled "Musical Chairs" promotes a geographical argument for the Zone 7 elections that is a "gross misrepresentation of facts."

Contrary to their statement that each valley community is entitled to only one more seat on the board, Miller said, Zone 7 board members are not elected by wards.

"Members of the Zone 7 board are elected by an informed public which chooses the best qualified candidates on the basis of their positions on important issue," Miller said.

Miller termed the editorial an attempt to "cover up the real issues of this campaign."

"If the Herald/ News - Developer - Valley First Machine can elect a Zone 7 board sympathetic to sewers for Geldermann, then Las Positas New Town will be one more step closer to being a devastating reality for the valley," Miller said.

Emergency Center starts food drive

LIVERMORE — The Emergency Fund Center board of directors will be meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 13, at the center, 2564 First Street.

The first order of business will be thinking of new ways to get desperately needed food for the center. The all - volunter center offers free food, clothing and emergency cash to families in desperate need, on a one - time basis. The center also has a well stocked thrift shop which has clothing at regular thrift shop prices for ordinary shoppers and at half price for needy families.

The center's shelves have been almost empty since the Christmas holidays, when their annual food basket giveaway cleaned out the storeroom. The small income from clothing and household items sold in the gift shop barely covers rent, telephone, utilities and a small amount of food purchased each month.

In the month of March, the center assisted 25 returning families, 12 new cases and six transients by giving out 29 grocery orders, five meal orders, one free lodging, one bundle of clothing and seven gasoline orders.

The center's beginning balance for March stood at 3,242; ending balance, $2,976. Only $108 was raised through sales at the store during March.

Director Elmer Rosenberg is checking out the availability and condition of wheelchairs, walkers and other orthopedic equipment the center could loan out.

The orthopedic equipment fund was started by the Voice of the Valley Radio Club, who donated $80 to the center.

Officers of the center, elected in March, are: Richard Quinlan, president; Elmer Rosenberg, vice president; Freda Bland, treasurer and Betty Johnsen, secretary.

Aida Kuendig is store manager while Pat Holye is in charge of office management.

Greek Festival
Set places for 10,000

What do you serve when you are expecting 10,000 for dinner?

The question is an annual one for members of the Greek Orthodox Church of the Ascension in Oakland, who are planning meals, wines and pastries for that many and more at Greek Festival '76, scheduled for May 15 and 16 at the Oakland Auditorium.

The festival, the fourth put on by the Oakland Greek community since 1972, attracts a literal army of volunteer helpers to prepare the authentic Greek foods to homemade standards. Greek cuisine is not spicy or hot, but it is rich with unique blends of natural herbs native to Greece.

This year's festival dinner will consist of souvlakia (skewered beef), Greek salad (made with feta cheese), rice pilaf, dolmathes (stuffed rolled grape leaves) and string beans (made in the traditional Greek way with a touch of olive oil and herbs.

The entire meal is prepared by experienced chefs at the festival, served in customarily large Greek-style portions, and costs only $5

Greek wines and liquers, including metaxa (a grape brandy), retsina (a dry resin wine), and ouzo (an almost licorice flavored Greek apertif), will be served in the festival's taverna, which will duplicate the lively evening gathering spots in Greece. Surprise concoctions called "Greek Goddess" and "Zorba's Kiss," both made famous at the last three Oakland festivals, will be served for brave drinkers.

Between the dancing, entertainment and shopping at the festival, visitors can relax and watch the activity from the kafenion or Greek coffee house. Here, the results of weeks of preparation and baking, plus gallons of honey and almost a ton of butter and sugar, can be sampled. Familiar Greek sweets like baklava and loukoumades (honey puffs), as well as more unusual treats like yiaourtini (yogurt cake) and galatobouriko (a custard pastry), will fascinate cooks and delight eaters.

Ready - made samples of the Greek pastries can be purchased at the festival to take home, but for the more industrious, cooking demonstrations will be given throughout the weekend by the community's most expert cooks. Everything on the dinner menu and all the sweets in the kafenion can be prepared from the instructions given in the demonstrations, and a few of these quick lessons will help add an occasional Greek touch to any kitchen.

The festival is open on Saturday, May 15, from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. and on the following day from 11 a.m. until midnight. The dinner is served from noon to 10 p.m. on each day of the festival.

Car Wash vs. train solution

LIVERMORE — A possible solution to a limited access problem at the Livermore Kwik Car Wash on First Street at the railroad tracks emerged near the end of a day-long state Public Utilities Commission (PUC) hearing in town earlier this week.

The public hearing was held by the PUC on the relocation of the Southern Pacific railroad tracks along First Street which was to result in one of the two car wash driveways being barricaded for safety purposes.

Car wash owners Robert Bedford and Leslie Jones protested the plan, noting the barricade would seriously reduce the ease with which large vehicles could enter and leave the car wash and result in the owners loss of a portion of their business which includes tractor - trucks, motor homes and campers.

"Large vehicles require turn - around space, which we now have, and which will be eliminated as a result of the erection of the barricade," they explained.

The idea born of the PUC hearing is to allow a crossing gate from the car wash at the railroad tracks as an exit only and to insure the other driveway is used for an entrance only by installing spikes that would prohibit its use as an exit.

The idea will be pursued further and the PUC has scheduled another hearing on the track relocation for May 18 at its headquarters in San Francisco

VALLEY FIRST COMMITTEE

WHY IS THE ZONE 7 ELECTION SO IMPORTANT?

We feel it is important because it affects people and their jobs.

On one hand, there are the people who say they don't care if taxes go up and young people can't find housing or jobs. They have a well paid job, comfortable home and can afford to pay whatever the cost to live here.

On the other hand, we care about people being forced out of their homes by high taxes. We care about young adults who need jobs and housing. We care about people on fixed incomes. We want to attract industry and business into the valley to share in the tax burden and provide jobs.

The attitudes of the candidates concern us. We hope they concern you.

How to break burglar's edge

"All you're doing is to teach young thieves how to commit burglary."

That was the complaint filed by three Valley residents who felt that this newspaper's recent series on "Burglaries" was little more than an invitation to more residential thievery.

Most responsible law enforcement people do not agree.

"The experienced thief, even the 14 - year - old, already knows all he needs to know about breaking and entering, bypassing locks, and even use of two - way radio to stay alert for our patrols." That is the counsel of just one veteran police officer. It is the policeman's argument that "the home owner should know what the thief already knows. That way perhaps we can start working toward better security measures in the home ... including better locks on doors, and more alert neighborhoods."

It is that same goal which prompted The Times to publish the facts on suburbia's growing crime wave. The thieves are already here, already prospering. It's time the "secure suburbanite" understood that.

This is the same argument newspapers advance in printing stories about "petty crime." The "Rap Sheet" which appears daily in this newspaper is a sad litany of theft and minor mayhem. We do not create the crime; we simply report a small part of it, in muted fashion, so that our readers might be aware, and stay alert.

Councilman Glen Dahlbacka believes the problem is worthy of official City of Livermore action, perhaps requiring home builders to provide door locks that won't yield to screw drivers, or even a hard shove. One major developer has already started to install "dead bolt locks" in all new residential construction.

None of this will stop crime; but it will certainly make the thief's work much tougher, perhaps encouraging him to pass up your home when he's looking for "the easy touch."

That is our goal, and it should be yours too. With vacation season approaching, now is a good time to start checking your home's security.

Whose business?

Who owns the corner store? Who gains from a well - run meat market?

In this day of the megabusiness, the billion dollar annual gross and the $24,000 - a - year plumber, the consumer cannot be faulted for arguing that "business belongs to those who reap the profit."

Which leads us to ask — "Who really profits?" In these suburban communities, where business is called upon to support everything from Little League Baseball to cultural arts, it is not difficult to determine who shares the reward of a healthy home - town business sector.

This is no attempt to hide the fact that every business venture is conceived to make someone a handsome profit. (When many of these ventures fail we are entitled to write them off as "his tough luck.") But it is the profit - making enterprise that gets our attention, and our support.

And the healthy business, in turn, supports the community. We are aware of this in recent city council pledges to "develop more local commerce in order to keep more sales tax at home." You share in the merchant's boosterism every time you pick up a printed program at the charity dinner, the high school basketball game or even the church function. Few such programs could be offered without the business sector's support.

It is, admittedly, a fair exchange. A smart merchandiser needs a healthy community; a wise consumer understands the worth of a well - run retail outlet.

This newspaper admits to owing our own livelihood to a few hundred profit- making merchandisers within our service area. Neither could we survive without the 380 boys and girls who carry this newspaper into 27,114 homes throughout the Valley. These "Little Merchants" often get their first taste of business in that carrier role. It is an experience that serves them well.

May 9 through May 15 is "National Small Business Week." It is a week to take inventory of the part that free enterprise plays in this free society.

No on Prop. 15

Editor, The Times:

This is in response to John McClure's letter in the April 30 Times.

Mr. McClure says, "A nuclear reactor is basically an atom bomb under control." A reactor is no more an atom bomb than a gasoline engine — which explodes gasoline in a cylinder — is a high explosive aerial bomb. I object strongly to the use of the highly emotional, misleading, and incorrect term "atom bomb."

There are many issues that can be discussed in connection with Proposition 15 that ought not to be obscured with the use of words like "atom bomb."

I personally am voting No on Proposition 15 for the following reasons, among others:

1. I believe that nuclear power is far safer than the other practical sources of power. For example, compare the results of the Browns Ferry fire, which Mr. McClure discusses, with the killer fog of London some years back which was caused by fossil fuel.

2. I believe that it would be disastrous to this country to shut down nuclear power and increase our dependence on foreign oil. We are already way overdependent now.

3. Most people in favor of Proposition 15 say it will not shut down nuclear power, only enhance the safety. That is not what the people say who pushed the initiative in the first place. Read Ralph Nader's statements for example. Their objective is to shut down all nuclear power in the whole country.

4. I have read the nuclear initiative. It is very bad law and unworkable. I urge everyone to read the Proposition 15 for himself or herself.

FOCUS/Teachers' rally

Schools' summit

Alameda and Contra Costa County teachers are literally going to put the squeeze on area legislators come this Monday.

Being planned is a "massive" rally of teachers, board members, administrators and members of the community sympathetic to the plight of education not only in this area but throughout the Bay Area.

A press release earlier this week said the meet was slated for the "Oakland Auditorium," though earlier announcements had referred to the Coliseum. The latter, of course, is the huge arena off Hegenberger Road in Oakland while the former is in by Lake Merritt — and much, much smaller.

One of the key organizers of this rally is Jim Eaton, social studies department head at Foothill High School in Pleasanton and a former president of the Amador Valley Educators Association.

We have always regarded Eaton as a sincere, hard-driving young educator who successfully balances his classroom and department head duties with the concerns of his fellow teachers.

This is no easy task.

It is easy to pick out certificated staff employees who give the public a very strong impression they're only out for their own gain — and the public be damned!

Teachers and school districts do, however, have some very legitimate concerns. Certainly ones that merit a gathering.

California Teachers Association president Steve Edwards and Eaton note that Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles and all area legislators, including Senator John Holmdahl and Assemblyman Wilson Floyd Mori have been invited.

This writer will be quite surprised if Brown shows. Campaigning may take up too much of his time!!

The one objectionable feature of this event is that some districts are permitting teachers to leave school early or to utilize school buses to transport personnel.

I do not know of any valley district or school groups doing this, though.

If teachers and/or board members wish to attend this rally they should do it on their own time and with their own transportation. School buses are for transporting of school children and not for conveying teachers, administrators or any other personnel to rallys or conventions.

* * *

According to the latest CTA missive, salary increases are not the first concern of California's teachers.

Top priorities, rather, are such pupil - related concerns as lower class size, a say-so on policies affecting instruction, more supplies and equipment, something done about vandalism and violence.

These are major points in a survey released last week by the CTA. The survey, taken this past fall, involved a representative 60,000 teachers in 115 school districts.

Edwards said the teacher priorities in the CTA survey, in which salary was in fifth place, were similar to those in a recent nationwide survey conducted by the National Education Association (NEA).

Letters to the Times

How gullible?

Editor, The Times:

Who will profit from Prop. 15 being defeated? The nuclear industry who will not have to prove anything to anybody.

Who is spending $7,000,000 to defeat Prop. 15? The nuclear industry who knows that large nuclear power plants will not now bear close public scrutiny of their safety systems. Thus the industry's campaign tactics of unclear allegations and fear statements about loss of jobs and the lights going out.

Who refuses to face the fact that the people should have a say in what legacy they hand down to the next generation? Right again, the nuclear industry.

Who keeps telling us everything is o.k. — not to worry about anything — nuclear power generation is the greatest thing to come along since false teeth? Right, the people that work in the industry.

I ask you, how gullible are we expected to be?

Murphy defended

Editor, The Times:

In your editorial of April 14 you attempted to justify the hatchet job you did on Supervisor John D. Murphy with one of the oldest excuses in the newspaper profession — "The people's right to know." Let's look at the record, John, and see if the Times did, indeed, perform it's duty.

On April 11 you began a muckraking attack on the incumbent supervisor that continued for three weeks, devoting a total of 55 column inches. Finally, on April 30, you headlined an editorial of 7½ column inches — "Mr. Murphy is exonerated." Yet nowhere in that editorial did you admit that you were wrong in your judgement of John D. Murphy's integrity.

Now Mr. Edmands, if you really believe in the "people's right to know," it is your duty to answer a few questions.

Why is it that the Tri-Valley Herald carried the entire story on April 13, including legal sources testifying to Mr. Murphy's innocence in 12 column inches? Surely Mr. Edmands the Times had available the same sources of information as the Herald!

Why was Walt Hecox removed from his responsibilities as Managing Editor? Was it because he stuck up for Murphy in his Sound and Fury column?

Why hasn't the Times exposed Valerie Raymond's violations of the law? What about her campaign newsletter which bears neither the name of the printer or publisher? You must be aware that this is a violation of elections code, section 11707, added by chapter 1186 of the Waxman - Dymally campaign disclosure act.

What about illegal placement of campaign signs by Valerie Raymond in the City of Livermore? While you are conducting your investigation you might also ask her how she got one of her signs up on San Francisco City Water Company property on Calaveras Road in Sunol.

Finally, Mr. Edmands, Just what is your motive behind this character assassination of John D. Murphy? Could it be you just didn't want the County Government Center that Murphy supported built two blocks from your home?

Bill Thompson
Livermore

(Just for the record — The Times has endorsed Supervisor Murphy in each of his five major contests for county office, and this is the only newspaper with that record of consistency. The hilltop County Center site (which The Times opposed) is about the same distance from "the Edmands' home" as the Pleasanton Civic Center, which this newspaper felt was one of the better site proposals for that county structure. Finally, The Times makes no apology for its longtime support of Mr. Murphy's candidacy, and neither do we apologize for keeping a close watch on our public servants, exposing valid "conflicts" wherever and whenever possible — The Editor)

Loved Walt

Editor, The Times:

When you fired, or let Walter Hecox get away from you, you lost the best part of your paper. Yes, he was unpredictable, so doggoned honest, so real, and often soft hearted that he had great appeal to us who admire those qualities.

Was he fired because he chose to stand up for someone he considered his friend, right or wrong? He has lived a life filled with the good and the harsh parts of life if I am any judge. We need more real down-to-earth people, like Walt in this crazy, mixed up world.

May you regret it and may his new paper prosper because of his individuality and his honesty. Lets see this in Letters to the Editor; I dare you.

"As a matter of fact, after makin' that statement I came out strongly for ethnic impurity in neighborhoods."

round the town

Am I an "I" or is me a "We"?

It is a question of some importance. Particularly for those who write. Or serve in public office. Or who aspire to same.

"We expect to do well in the Indiana primary," Jimmy Carter said.

Translation: "I'm a cinch to slaughter 'em in Indiana."

So why doesn't Jimmy tell it like it is? Why the mysterious "we"? Makes it sound like there are a whole bunch of Carters running for the White House job. Which of course there are; but not as far as the voters, or the constitution, are concerned.

We choose 'em one at a time. What they do once in office is something else again.

"We expect to be out of the hospital tomorrow morning and with a clean bill of health," press secretary Ron Nesson told the reporters.

Ron of course is not going into the hospital. He never felt better. It's the President who is in for the checkup. But press secretaries have long used the "Royal We" when talking about their master. It's as though presidential aides have no identity of their own. Until they pull a big boo boo, that is. And then it's another story.

Jerry Brown makes great use of the plural pronoun.

"We must lower our expectations." Most of us don't give a tinker's damn if the governor wants to lower HIS expectations. But let him speak for himself. Personally, I have labored half a century to get my expectations above the poverty level. I sure as blazes don't want to go back to square one at this juncture of my life. And even if I tried, there would be another voice heard from in our abode.

I might announce as follows — "We are lowering our expectations effective today, and that means cutting the household budget by 30 percent."

"You lower YOUR expectations all you want, lover boy, but try cutting my household allowance by as much as a dollar and you're in big trouble."

It is to avoid just such a confrontation that I have never, in reality, raised such a question. The lady of the house and I have an understanding: What is mine is ours; the rest is hers. It has served us well for lo' these many years. I see no reason to change the formula now.

Not all married couples (or whatever) have such a clear arrangement. Especially in high - level politics.

"We were quite disappointed," Mrs. Ford said of Reagan's showing in Texas.

Translation: Gerald Ford is so damned mad at Texas that, once elected to a new term in the White House, he plans on removing the oil depletion allowance and doubling the tax on domestic beef.

Folks who don't fully comprehend the rules of the "We" game are liable to get a mite confused. Even when their news is filtered through that greatest of all simplifiers ... the TV tube.

"It is our contention that Henry Kissinger has erred."

What Walter Cronkite really means to suggest is that he, Cronkite, thinks Kissigner is a crook. Not all of CBS-TV agrees with Walter on this one. But no one steps forth to challenge Walt's use of the "Royal Our." Cronkite's personal opinion is therefore given the blessing of an entire network.

This is not the first crisis arising out of American usage of the English language. There are those who contend that the politicians got us into, clear through, and then finally out of the Vietnam thing without ever once telling the American people that we (You!) were involved in a war.

American boys died in "incursions." Millions of acres were "defoliated." Thousands of helpless peasants were "wasted." But not once were we ever advised that people were being killed in a bloody battle over a piece of jungle that nobody really wanted, before or since.

Such is the importance of semantics, in this, our nation's 200th year. We've come a long way, baby.

"My country right or wrong." That's the way one patriot put it, a couple of hundred years ago. Couldn't have made it more plain. Somewhere along the trail, we lost that kind of ability. To tell it like it is.

"I want to be president so bad I don't care what I say as long it helps get me there." If Jimmy Carter could speak with that kind of candor, folks would flock to his tent.

As it is now, the campaign is for "Us," to support "Our dream." It sounds like we're electing a host of heavenly angels.

"The only people who should use 'we' are kings, editors and people with tapeworms."

Mark Twain said that. No one ever put it better. Would make a great bumper sticker.

EARL WATERS

Brown's folly

It just doesn't seem incredible, it IS incredible!

With more than one million Californians out of work, with crime increasingly rampant, with the homeowners' backs to the wall from taxation, to mention only a few of the host of urgent problems confronting the state, the governor is flitting about the nation imbued with the silly notion that his do-nothing record merits his consideration as a presidential candidate.

Republican State Chairman Paul Haerle has termed Brown's candidacy, in the face of his non-performance as governor, "obscene." Certainly, what is obscene is the spectacle of his aides, and too many of the legislators, tweetering and chirping Brown's praises like a group of silly school girls when they should be confronting him with the hard facts of the problems unsolved. It is a fantasy which can only be compared to the Bobbsey Twins, Pollyana and Alice in Wonderland rolled into one.

Even had Brown earned by deeds a place in the presidential hustings his seemingly precipitous late entrance into the race gives him an image too flighty to warrant serious consideration as a President.

However, recent in-dept interviews with his close aides deny this to be the case. Instead they assert that Brown knows exactly what he is doing. They say he is a master political strategist and is playing out a campaign according to a planned schedule.

If that be true Brown must stand as a scoundrel of the worst sort.

For, if he has merely been posing as a "non-politician" aloof from the customary ceremonial aspects of the governorship and too busy to engage in the normal political functions, while all these months plotting to toss his hat into the presidential ring, he is no more than a fraud and a cheat.

He is a fraud because he pledged to the voters he would bring a "new spirit" to state government, a promise which conveyed he would bring about changes with some new programs to solve old problems. Instead he has shown no leadership and done nothing.

He makes himself a cheat by seeking to renege on his four year contract. He not only pledged to faithfully devote himself to the duties of governor but he made that pledge repeatedly and denied over and over any interest in being a candidate for the presidency in 1976.

The people of California deserve much better and much more when they give the highest office, within their power to grant, than to have self-serving ambitious politicians use that office as a mere stepping stone along the path to greener pastures.

If his close aides are to be believed, he never had any intention of living up to his bargain. Rather he planned all along to leap for the brass ring before, as an aide put it, he has to "live with his record" in office.

What that seems to say is that it is easier to beguile the voters with lofty words when there is no record to reveal their emptiness. Recalling he was nearly a phantom candidate in his bid for governor, refusing to be nailed down to specifics and talking airily in generalities about a "new spirit," it is obvious he plans to re-run that production.

The idea implied by the "new spirit" doggerel is that government is best run by amateurs. Intended to support that are his constant derisions of the experinced as "professional politicians."

What Brown and his chorus of aides will inevitably learn is that amateurs who venture into politics must very quickly become professionals or find themselves out in the cold in a hurry through inept bumbling.

It can be predicted the latter will happen to the overly ambitious governor who has permitted his fawning syncophants to send him down the disastrous course of self-aggrandizement.

Poppy Days

Editor, The Times:

For hundreds of long - term disabled veterans in Veterans Administration Hospitals and State Veterans Homes, every day is V.F.W. Buddy Poppy pay.

These are the men who assembled the Poppies and pack them in boxes for shipment to some 9,000 Posts and Auxiliaries throughout the nation. The Veterans of Foreign Wars pays the disabled veteran for his work. In most cases, the money provides extra income for the disabled veteran to pay for the little luxuries which make hospital life tolerable.

From the time it leaves the hospital till it graces a coat lapel or dress of the individual citizen, the Poppy provides care for the widows and orphans of deceased veterans at the V.F.W. National Home in Eaton Rapids, Michigan; provides funds for veterans rehabilitation services on the State and National level; pays for direct relief to the families of needy and deceased veterans; and serves as a memorial to the dead of all wars of the United States.

The annual sale in this area will be on Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22. Members of the Livermore Valley V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary will be selling Buddy Poppies at the Livermore Post Office entrance and at local bank and supermarket entrances.

Opening lead — J ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another hand to separate the men from the boys. Not that it represents anything of real importance. South is in a nice, comfortable three notrump contract and is sure of 10 tricks come Hell or high water.

He wins the heart lead in dummy and is going to lead a club at trick two. The ordinary, careless player leads a low one and plays an honor after East plays low. West shows out and now our careless player will only collect three club tricks.

The careful player will lead the queen of clubs first. He will have noted that if West holds all five clubs there will be no way to get four tricks there, but that if East holds all five this queen play will make it possible to finesse twice against the nine-eight.

These little differences don't mean anything most of the time, but they do distinguish the really good players from the others

Ask the Jacobys

Here is a tough question from Carolina. You hold: ♠ x ♥ A K Q x x ♦ J x x ♣ Q x x x.

Your partner opens one diamond. There is a one spade overcall and you bid two hearts. Your partner bids two notrump. What do you bid now?

We just raise our partner to three notrump. Our second choice is three diamonds and third choice three hearts.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

EBAL athletes compete at Fresno

A host of East Bay Athletic League track athletes hope to prove themselves against some of the toughest competition in the state today at the famed Fresno Relays.

Mike Bowles of San Ramon, the East Bay Area's leading discus thrower, is probably the best bet among EBAL performers to take a first place medal.

The husky senior has thrown the platter 175-7 this season and could improve on that today.

"He's (Bowles) looking for about 185 feet today," San Ramon coach Dan Stevens said yesterday. "We're hopeful he can hit 190 feet by the state meet."

Stevens feels Bowles is right on schedule for his goals.

"His strongest assets are his strength and speed. Of course, he's our fastest sprinter and that helps out a lot."

Also competing will be hurdlers Chuck Gangnuss of Dublin and Scott Campbell of Granada. They will meet some of the state's top performers in the 120-meter highs. Campbell qualified for the meet with a 14.7 clocking and Gangnuss made it with a 14.5 time.

Dublin's 440-yard relay team will also compete. The Gaels have run a 43.8 this season. Mt. Pleasant of San Jose has the fastest qualifying time with a 41.9, Balboa of San Francisco has run 42.2 and Piedmont Hills (S.J.) has run 42.3.

Granada is bringing several other performers to the meet. High jumper John Walden will compete in the high jump. He has done 6-4¼ this season.

The Matadors' boys mile relay team of Campbell, Drew Watson, Andy Heath and Joel Strickland will compete. The quartet has run 3:29.3 this year. The Matadors' girls 440-yard relay team of Karen Roberts, Debbie Santa Maria, Kathy Honour and Diana Stohr is also entered.

MATADOR LONG JUMPER COMES IN FOR A LANDING.
Granada's Jay Mgowin hits the pit in yesterday's meet

Jon Batchelor set a school record in the 220-yard dash as Dublin High School closed out the East Bay Athletic League dual meet track season with a 76-60 loss to visiting Granada yesterday afternoon.

Batchelor, who sped to a 22.8 in establishing the mark, also won the 100-yard dash with a 10.4 effort.

The Matadors made it a sweep, taking the frosh-soph, 105-31, and girls, 87.5-12.5, in addition to the boys varsity.

The long - awaited showdown between Gael hurdler Chuck Gangnuss and his Granada counterpart Scott Campbell turned out to be somewhat less than scintillating.

In the 330 lows, Gangnuss came out of the final turn slightly off balance and stumbled over the sixth hurdle. He still finished first, one-tenth of a second in front of team mate Jim Boulware and Campbell, who was awarded second place by the judges.

Gangnuss had more hurdle problems in the 120 highs, this time through no fault of his own.

After he had cleared the fifth barrier, it inexplicably fell over, catching his heel.

I stumbled a little and had to stutter to get over the next hurdle," he said. "But I had Campbell (who was timed in 15.5) beat all the way."

But Gangnuss, who will compete in the West Coast Relays tonight at Fresno, was far from pleased with his time of 14.9, almost a second slower than his goal for the day.

Scott Kusko, also bound for the Fresno meet, ran well off his personal best in the mile, but still recorded an impressive victory over Dublin ace Doug Harvey.

Although Kusko didn't doubt his ability to defeat Harvey, he looked to be fading in the backstretch as the Dublin star increased a slender lead. But without warning, Kusko started his kick at the end of the final turn and wooshed past Harvey for an eight-stride victory.

Only San Ramon's Jim Anklam had previously beaten Harvey in dual meet competition.

"I always whip everyone down that last stretch," said Kusko afterward. "I've been running that way all year — I think I'll keep running that way."

The 16-point Dublin loss could be misleading as the Gaels failed to enter either the two-mile or mile relay. The former case provided Granada with a humorous opening and the Mats took advantage.

The Granada entrants attempted to stage a four-way tie by running abreast of each other on the eighth lap, but Jeff Cowling was judged the winner with a time of 11:39.8, one-tenth faster than Kusko and Rich Antal, who were given second and third.

Patty Hannon and Kathy Honour led the Granada girls, picking up two wins apiece.

Hannon won the high jump with a leap of 4-10 and the discus with a toss of 74-8. She also was second in the shot put at 28-11. Honour captured the long jump (17-0) and the 80 low hurdles (11.9).

Phillip Audio highlighted the Mats frosh-soph, winning a trio of events.

SR breezes to easy win

While the horses peacefully grazed overlooking an otherwise dull battleground, powerful San Ramon High School rolled over Monte Vista in an East Bay Athletic League track meet yesterday in Danville.

Final score was an expected 89-47.

In what was clearly a tactical exercise, the Wolves, an accomplished power, burdened the Mustangs with their fourth defeat in six outings. San Ramon is 6-1 with Foothill awaiting them on Monday.

After dashing to a fine 440-yard relay win the Wolves had this one settled. The team of Brad Wilson, Fritz Venker, Mike Marhenke and Mike Bowles, who later went on to achieve easy wins, clocked a fine 45.1.

Marhenke came back to win the 330-yard low hurdles and 120-yard high hurdles, and also legged a lap on the Wolves' victorious mile relay team.

The powerful Bowles, who will compete in the Fresno Relays today, tossed the shot put and discus to effortless victories He threw the shot 46-5½ and the discus 161-8.

Venker, meanwhile won the triple jump, was runner-up in the 220-yard dash, and was third in the long jump. On the other hand, Wilson, just a sophomore, was third in the 220 and third man on the mile relay team.

The Wolves' Paul Swenson blitzed to wins in the 440-yard dash and 880-yard run at 52.8 and 1:59.7. In the sprints, the Mustangs's Bill Fowler won the 100 and 220. Fowler's times were 10.4 and 22.9.

San Ramon, which employed a combination of factors to win, won 12 of 16 events.

In the frosh-soph and girls' divisions the Mustangs won easily with scores of 85-51 and 58-33 respectively.

In the girls' division Monte Vista's Carol Dolsby set a new EBAL record in the shot put with a throw of 39-1 1/2. Dolsby came back to win the discus at 116-5.

Vicki Madden of Monte Vista took the 80-yard low hurdles and high jump and was a part of the 440-yard relay.

Sentinels play for state title

The Livermore Sentinels play for the state championship in soccer's Junior Challenge Cup Saturday at Emma Smith School in Livermore.

The Sentinels will meet Fountain Valley at 11:30. The Sentinels have won the Northern California title in the Challenge Cup. Fountain Valley is Southern California's representative.

Winner of this contest will play the Northwest champion from Oregon or Washington. After that comes a battle with the representative from the Nevada area.

The survivor travels to Long Island, N.Y. this June for the finals of the Challenge Cup. Last year the Livermore Neutrons finished third nationally in the Cup at Milwaukee.

The Sentinels hope for a repeat Livermore appearance in the finals. First step would be a victory over Fountain Valley, which could be more difficult than originally expected. The Sentinels may have to play without two fullbacks, Wes Settle and Bob Foster.

Settle sprained an ankle recently and is wearing a splint that won't come off until tomorrow. Foster has just recovered from a knee injury, but now he too has a bad ankle.

Coach Mike Thompson said yesterday that both could play, but he won't be sure until game time.

Livermore has enjoyed a powerful offense in recent games and an improving defense in front of goal keeper Pete Howard.

The Sentinels played their best soccer of the season in capturing Northern California's Cup championship.

"We've had good practices and we've been working very hard," said Thompson. "If we just don't get any bad breaks, I'll think we'll make it. But it will be a tough, defensive game, probably decided by one goal."

Pokes crush Foothill

Livermore grabbed a share of the EBAL track championship yesterday by demolishing Foothill, 116-15, the first time in 12 years the 'Pokes have accomplished that feat.

After suffering a controversial 70-66 loss to co-champion San Ramon last week, Livermore coach Jack Nix faced the difficult task of getting the 'Pokes up for the meet. "You focus on the good things," Nix explained. "We got a piece of the championship. That's the first time we've done that in 12 years."

Livermore high jumpers Kelly Hardiman and Bob Churchill had no trouble getting up. Both jumpers set EBAL season marks by clearing 6-5. Hardiman barely missed an attempt at 6-6, and later cleared the bar after his third attempt.

Hardiman was a double winner, as the lanky senior won the long jump with a leap of 19-10.

Foothill's Craig Johnson, a bonified contender for league honors in the 440, won the quarter-mile in 52.1. It turned out to be the Falcons' only first of the afternoon.

Mike West won three events for the 'Pokes, the most impressive of which was the 220. West covered the distance in 23.2, while taking the 120 High hurdles in 16.2 and the 100 yard dash in 10.4.

Mark Tewes put the shot 45-3 to bring home another first, while Brad Sundahl hurled the discus 135-4.

Although finishing in a tie for the title, Nix expressed satisfaction over his team's performance and attitude throughout the season. "We don't have any superstars. We've got a couple of good kids in every event," he stated. "We've had a total difference of attitude, and that's very satisfying to me."

Livermore's girls completed an undefeated season by swamping the Falcons, 73-23.

Janice Paxiao led the way by setting a school record in the high jump leaping 5-3.

GM says good year expected

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The auto industry may be on its way to its second-best sales year in history, the chairman of General Motors said Wednesday.

Thomas A. Murphy said that industrywide sales for the first four months of the year were 27 per cent ahead of last year's pace, with GM's car sales 45 per cent better. The general upturn in the economy should mean car sales of at least 10½ million and truck sales of at least 3 million, he said.

Murphy's remarks were prepared for delivery at a luncheon of civic and business leaders. It was one of several presentations the company is making around the country to pose its case against stricter pollution control standards and to lay groundwork for upcoming contract negotiations with the United Auto Workers.

Realtors earn vacation

Heritage Realtors sales counselors Joanna Dixon (left), Norma Andrus, Bill Adams, Susanna Schlendorf and Shirley Slabaugh earned a trip for three days and two nights to the Hyatt House in Tahoe. The Heritage Associates helped to establish an all - time sales record for the month of April. In appreciation of their great efforts, broker Doug Hall is sending each one on a well - deserved vacation.
